Dear Murry Wilson,

Please reconsider the decision you are making about the proposed Phillips 66 oil train offloading facility in Santa Maria. Those mile-long oil trains carry millions of gallons of explosive crude oil in unsafe tank cars. Our rail system was designed to connect population centers, not move hazardous crude oil. Family of mine live in Santa Maria, my father was born there and attended Allan Hancock Community College and this proposal would threaten the safety of his hometown and our friends and family who still reside there. The trains not only make it a dangerous place to live by the fact of potential explosions, but they also pollute the air and increase the health risks for people who reside in Santa Maria. Santa Maria is a beautiful place my grandparents came from Mexico to raise their family in. Santa Maria is a town where neighbors know eachother and entire families live near eachother. It's a lovely homey atmosphere and these trains will only pollute that family atmosphere and ruin things for future generations. Keep Santa Maria beautiful, just as if it was your own hometown.

Thankyou for your time and consideration,
