Dear Sir,

I don't live in Huasna Valley, but have friends who do. They are obviously concerned about the anticipated oil drilling in their area. It is interesting that there are multiple companies that will possibly be involved in this project, but when these companies are questioned they shrug off questions about lease rights because, supposedly, they are not Excelaron. However, as the article in New Times states, they kind of are. I hope that your office does a thorough investigation of all the affiliated companies before granting any kind of approval. This whole setup looks mighty suspicious to me. Thank your concern. I hope the folks in Huasna Valley get an honest reading of what is going on, and only the county is in a position to do that.

Sincerely, Joyce Palaia
