Subject: Mosier, Oregon 96-car Oil Train Derailment

All,

Well it's happened again and will continue to happen. If you approve the increased oil trains in SLO county it will only increase the odds of happening here sooner and will make a much bigger impact.

We have such a special place here on the Central coast. That's what I migrated from San Diego county. I really don't understand how you can take a chance of changing our way of life and putting so many people at risk?

I hope you consider how many people this will likely impact at some time in the future. How we'll then be know for "that place that had the great train derailment" God forbid.

I'm not a tree hugger by any means but on this issue the negatives far far out weigh the positives.

THINK ABOUT IT AND DO THE RIGHT THING FOR A CHANGE!
